COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to introduce students to political science. From the onset students will learn how power is studied and practiced and learn the tools to better understand the challenges in the modern globalized world. The course will include the basic concepts and theoretical approaches in the study of power and its practice. Among the many important questions the survey course will examine are the nature of political regimes, human rights, political culture and ideologies, public policy, political participation and institutions and violence. The level of analyses examined will extend from individual political behavior to governments and states and organizations in the international system. Students will enrich their knowledge and skills that will help them in any career and in becoming more empowered and informed citizens.

COURSE GOALS

Students will develop the tools to understand diversity and contemporary global problems, as well as learn analytical skills and problem-solving. This course is ideal for students interested in honing their ability to interpret complex issues, understand the diverse perspectives of stakeholders and develop tools to address real world challenges.

Specific Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Understand a Range of Concepts, Theories and Approaches in Political Science
- Appreciate the Diversity of Political Perspectives and Outlooks
- Frame Problems from Multiple Perspectives
- Construct and Present their Own Interpretations of Political Events
- Recognize the Range and Variation in Forms of Political Power
- Evaluate Government Approaches to Rights and Justice
- Formulate their Own Opinions on Political Issues
- Work More Effectively in a Group Dynamic
- Research Contemporary Political Issues

ASSESSMENT METHODS

Class Participation:	10%
In-Class Learning Assignments/Quizzes	15%
Opinion Pieces:	25%
Group Oral Presentation:	15%
Book Report:	15%
Final examination:	20%
Total	100%

a) Class Attendance & Participation (10% of total grade) Students are expected to read all the required reading before class to participate in discussion. Please note that more than ONE absence of any class session will significantly lower a student's final participation grade. Regular patterns of tardiness will also negatively affect a student's performance. Class participation will be assessed based on the quality of participation in the class, with higher marks given to students who relate inputs to the course readings and express individual ideas articulately and succinctly. Students are not evaluated on the volume that they say, but the degree to which their participation adds value to the discussion. Students are asked to turn their cell phones and PDAs on silent mode and not use them during class time. Laptops are to be used for note-taking, not chatting and emailing during class time. Student distractions that take away from the overall class learning environment are strongly discouraged and will be assessed in class participation performance.

b) In-Class Learning Assignments/Quizzes (15% of total grade), As part of the learning process, students will be asked to participate in a series of in-class simulations and problem-solving tasks. These will draw on the assigned course reading. Students will be assessed on their class preparation and the quality of participation in these short assignments. There will be three quizzes in the course of the term and they will be unannounced. These will be held in the beginning of class and students who miss these quizzes without a MC will not be excused.

c) Opinion Pieces- (25% of total grade) Students are asked to submit TWO opinion pieces that make clear arguments and harness evidence to buttress their positions. The opinion pieces should be succinct and accessible, no more than 800 words (strictly enforced). Students can choose their own topics and should relate their papers to contemporary global political issues. A list of possible topics will be available on the course website/LMS. At least one of these assignments must address issues outside of Singapore. Assignments will be assessed on individuality, writing, evidence, clarity and effective use of sources. First paper must be submitted on February 18th and the second on March 15th through LMS and email to the professor and the TA. All assignments must also simultaneously be processed through TURNITIN accessible on LMS. Students must also turn in a hard copy to the professor by 5pm on the due date in her inbox directly in front of the SOSS Administrative Office on the 4th floor. Students can request to submit a third piece and the two top marks of all three pieces will be used in the final grade. This third assignment must be completed before March 29th. No late assignments will be accepted. In the beginning of term, there will be a workshop to introduce students to how to conduct research in political science with Library staff and students are strongly encouraged to attend the Political Science Writing Workshop organized during the term by the Centre for English Communication (CEC).

d) Group Oral Presentation (15% of the total grade). Students working in groups of up to 5 people will be asked to present a comparative case study associated with the topic of one of the first twelve weeks in the course. Students will sign up in the second week of class on LMS. All of the presentations should be no more than 10 minutes (with five minutes for questions), include a two-page written synopsis of the main questions and findings of the case study comparison and a power point presentation that should be forwarded to the TA and professor at least one hour before the presentation. All presentations will take place during class in Week 13. Strict time limits will be imposed. The groups will be selected in the beginning of term and be on a first come, first chosen basis. Students are required to meet with the professor in the immediate week after the chosen week to discuss the presentation during her office hours. Students will be assessed on their ability to present material clearly and succinctly, the quality of their synopsis as well as their understanding of the reading and comparative case study selected.

e) Book Report (15% of total grade): Students are asked review one of the two books assigned for the course in 3-5 double-spaced pages (1,500-2000 words). These book reviews must address the political issues in the text and connect these issues to the course material. The review must develop an argument. Each book will be discussed as an optional class dinner which students can sign up for on a first come, first space basis. Reviews will be assessed based on their individuality, clarity, presentation, argument and knowledge of the issues in the book. This assignment must be turned in via LMS and emailed to the professor and TA, with a hard copy placed in the inbox by 5pm on the due date, February 4th. All book reviews must also simultaneously be processed through TURNITIN accessible on LMS.

f) Final Examination (20% of the final grade): Students will be required to sit for a final two-hour examination at the end of term. This examination will include identifications, multiple choice questions and short answer questions that assess the comprehension of the course reading and class discussions. The test will include both objective and subjective questions that test knowledge and the ability to formulate analytical responses. The final examination is scheduled for April 24th at 8:30am.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Students are expected to uphold high standards of academic integrity. Plagiarism, cheating and disrespect for diversity of views in the classroom are not acceptable. In the beginning of term, the professor will review different guidelines for research and help familiarize students with the techniques needed for report preparation. Throughout the course, a classroom environment of acceptance, respect and tolerance will be reinforced. Specific task-oriented assignments have been selected to reduce the temptation for students to rely on the ideas of others and tap directly into an individual student's abilities. All written assignments must be turned in through TURNITIN accessible through LMS.

SMU's policy on academic integrity states that all acts of academic dishonesty (including, but not limited to, plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, facilitation of acts of academic dishonesty by others, unauthorized possession of exam questions, or tampering with the academic work of other students) are serious offences. All work (whether oral or written) submitted for purposes of assessment must be the student's own work. Penalties for violation of the policy range from zero marks for the component assessment to expulsion, depending on the nature of the offense.

When in doubt, students should consult the instructors of the course before the assignment is due. Details on the SMU Code of Academic Integrity may be accessed at <http://www.smuscd.org/resources.html>.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS AND EXPECTATIONS

The assignments in this course develop knowledge and skills, with the aim of making students more confident and better prepared to address real world problems they will face. Simultaneously, they introduce students to contemporary problems in the world and teach core material associated with political science. Texts and course material for this course are purposely selected for accessibility. Teaching materials include novels, the course website, in-class simulations and core disciplinary reading material.

CONSULTATIONS AND TEACHING ASSISTANTS

Students are encouraged to meet one-on-one with the professor to discuss course material and their assignments. The professor holds regular office hours where students can meet her. Students are also welcome to schedule an appointment, but should provide at least three different alternatives to be accommodated for a meeting outside of office hours. Given the large number of students in the course, students are encouraged to book their time early. During term, students should expect a response to their emails within two business days. The Teaching Assistant is also available for consultation.

CLASS SESSIONS

Class sessions will be held for three hours per week, with a short break in the middle. Each session will combine lectures, discussions, and group activities focused on the assigned topics.

REQUIRED TEXT AND READINGS

Students will be expected to read all the required reading before class. All the required course reading will be available in the Library on reserve/LMS LMS or via links. The location of the reading is noted with parentheses below. Additional optional reading material will also be available on the course website.
